WORLD YOUTH CHAMPIONSHIPS 2013 ANNUAL FAVORITE BEING HELD ON A NEW CONTINENT

This year the World Youth Championships are being held in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, on the West Coast of North America. The top young climbers from around the world will be competing in the Pacific Ocean to prove they have what it takes to be a champion.

The Boulders Climbing Gym in Central Saanich, BC, Canada, is bustling with activity as they make the final preparations to host the World Youth Championships (WYCH). Teams from all over the world have already arrived for special pre-competition training sessions; and route setters are busy setting routes to complement and challenge the unique talents of these young athletes. Central Saanich was recently named the "Competition Climbing Gym of the Year" and a climbing facility like the Boulders Climbing Gym, it is easy to see why. The high competition climbing wall and over 1,200 square meters of climbing space at this class climbing facility will make a fantastic backdrop to this year's championships.

A high level of competition is expected at this exciting five-day event.

Over 400 athletes from approximately 35 countries are expected to compete in the WYCH. The event will be held from August 12th to 16th, 2013. The WYCH is a unique opportunity for young climbers to compete at the highest level of the sport.
